Bush: Rumsfeld Will Stay

President apologizes for abuses, stands by defense secretary

WASHINGTON | President Bush, struggling to control a growing crisis, apologized Thursday for the abuse of Iraqi prisoners by American soldiers and called it "a stain on our country's honor." He rejected calls for Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's resignation but complained about Rumsfeld's handling of the controversy.

"He'll stay in my Cabinet," Bush declared, a day after White House officials spread word that the president was upset at the secretary for not alerting him about damaging pictures. Some Republicans on Capitol Hill privately questioned whether Rumsfeld could survive and were angry that he had not shared information with them.

Usually loath to acknowledge mistakes or to apologize, Bush spoke up in the Rose Garden after meeting with Jordan's King Abdullah II.

"I told him I was sorry for the humiliation suffered by the Iraqi prisoners and the humiliation suffered by their families," the president said. "I told him I was equally sorry that people who have been seeing those pictures didn't understand the true nature and heart of America."

With the reputation and credibility of the United States on the line, the controversy was inflamed by graphic new pictures in The Washington Post. One showed a naked man on a cellblock floor, his neck in a leash held by a female American GI. Attorney General John Ashcroft said the Justice Department was ready to prosecute any civilians or former military personnel suspected of criminal conduct. TERENCE HUNT (AP)

UNDER THE SEA | Songs for All Seasons The male humpback whale is believed to sing its mysterious songs mainly for the same reason teenage boys start bad garage bands: to get girls. Researchers had thought the ocean crooners serenaded their ladies only during their winter mating season in the tropics. Now scientists know the humpbacks also use tunes to woo females during springtime in New England, when they're supposed to be focused on eating. (AP) EyeOpeners | Page 2

ON THE ROAD Slick Track

Hundreds of gallons of cooking oil spilled from a truck carrying the substance away from restaurants Wednesday, causing dozens of vehicles to skid and slip across a Palm Beach County, Fla., roadway. Officials closed a quarter-mile portion of Palmetto Park Road for nearly seven hours while they used cat litter, sand and cement to clean up the greasy surface. "It was like walking on ice," said sheriff's Sgt. David Combs, who added the area smelled like french fries. (AP)

Pipe Problem

A little flexibility and a dash of curiosity became a recipe for trouble this week for a dog named Sparky in Johnson City, Tenn. The 4-month-old German Shepherd was sniffing around a section of PVC pipe in the fenced-in backyard of owner Rebekah Wallace when the pup strayed just a little too far inside the foot-long pipe—and got stuck. Wallace rushed Sparky to the animal hospital, where veterinarians sedated her and cut the pipe away, the Johnson City Press reported Thursday. Wallace told the Press that Sparky's feeling much better now. (EXPRESS)

When finicky tourists in Singapore hear nature's call, they'll know where to go. The city-state is publishing maps pinpointing its 500 cleanest public toilets in its drive to wipe dirty lavatories off the face of the island, an official said Thursday. The toilet maps will indicate the cleanest and best-equipped restrooms for the benefit of tourists and shoppers, said Jack Sim, a founding member of the Singapore-based World Toilet Organization and president of the Restroom Association of Singapore. The city-state started rating public lavatories in its "Happy Toilet" campaign last June—using a five-star system similar to that used to grade hotels. A "Happy Toilet" is one that's rated three-stars or more. The maps are expected to be available for free at the international airport and information counters by August. (AP)

A Turtle's Gratitude

It may look like aquarist Paul Baker is getting a bit of attitude from a green sea turtle, but it's probably more like a love slap. Baker and others from Australia's Sydney Aquarium were working Thursday to release two turtles into the ocean off Sydney Heads. The turtle, weighing more than 110 pounds, was found stranded on a Sydney beach five months ago and rehabilitated in the aquarium, Reuters reported. And, apparently, this is how it shows its appreciation. (EXPRESS)

Embattled Rumsfeld Heads to the Hill

Defense chief to testify about Iraq prison abuses

WASHINGTON | President Bush said Thursday that Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld "will stay in my Cabinet" despite Democratic calls for his departure over abusive treatment of Iraqi prisoners by American military guards.

"Secretary Rumsfeld has served our nation well," Bush told reporters in an appearance in the White House Rose Garden. "Secretary Rumsfeld has been the secretary during two wars, and he is an important part of my Cabinet."

Bush's unambiguous endorsement came as Rumsfeld was preparing for what promises to be two contentious sessions with congressional committees on Friday. The defense secretary scrapped his only scheduled public appearance Thursday to prepare his testimony.

Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, returned early from a European trip to get ready for the appearance with Rumsfeld.

A growing list of Democrats in Congress said Rumsfeld should resign, be fired, or even impeached.

House Democratic Leader Nancy Pelosi told reporters she believes Rumsfeld must go, then issued a statement that said, "The abuses could have been prevented with proper leadership at the top of the chain of command."

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, issued a statement saying, "For the good of our country, the safety of our troops, and our image around the globe, Secretary Rumsfeld should resign." Sen. John Kerry of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee-in-waiting, also jabbed at Bush on the issue. In an appearance in California, Kerry said, "As president I will not be the last to know what is going on in my command. I will demand accountability for those who serve, and I will take responsibility for their actions."

FDA Rejects Over-Counter Sale Of Morning-After Pill

WASHINGTON | The government rejected over-the-counter sales of morning-after birth control on Thursday because of concern about young teenagers' use of the pills. But regulators left open the possibility they will reconsider.

The Food and Drug Administration was under intense political pressure from both sides on whether to lift the prescription requirement for emergency contraception. Conservatives argued doing so could encourage unsafe sex. Proponents said easier access to the pills could prevent thousands of abortions — and the FDA's own scientific advisers had overwhelmingly backed the change.

But in a letter to Barr Laboratories late Thursday, the FDA said there was no evidence teens younger than 16 could safely use the pills without a doctor's guidance — and it thus was rejecting the move until Barr could provide that evidence.

FAA Destroyed 9/11 Tape

Recording contained air traffic controllers' reactions to attacks

WASHINGTON | Air traffic controllers who handled two of the hijacked flights on Sept. 11, 2001, recorded their experiences shortly after the planes crashed, but a supervisor destroyed the tape, the government said Thursday.

A report by Transportation Department Inspector General Kenneth Mead said the manager for the New York air traffic control center asked the controllers to record their experiences a few hours after the crashes, believing they would be important for law enforcement.

Sometime between December 2001 and February 2002, an unidentified Federal Aviation Administration quality assurance manager crushed the cassette case in his hand, cut the tape into small pieces and threw them away in multiple trash cans, the report said.

The manager said he destroyed the tape because he felt it violated FAA policy calling for written statements from controllers who have handled a plane involved in an accident or other serious incident. He also said he felt the controllers weren't in the right frame of mind to have consented to the taping, the report said.

The report was sent to Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., who asked the inspector general to look into how well the FAA was cooperating with the independent panel investigating the Sept. 11 attacks.

Judge Voids Fla. Feeding Tube Law

Measure is at center of legal battle over woman with brain damage

TAMPA, FLA. | A law pushed through by Gov. Jeb Bush to keep a severely brain-damaged woman alive was struck down by a Florida judge Thursday in the latest turn in one of the United States' longest and most hard-fought right-to-die cases.

The governor's office filed an immediate appeal.

Circuit Judge W. Douglas Baird ruled that Terri's Law, named after Terri Schiavo, is unconstitutional because it violates the disabled woman's right to privacy and delegates legislative power to the governor.

The law was passed in October, just days after the removal of a feeding tube that has helped keep Schiavo alive for more than a decade. Bush immediately invoked the new law to order the feeding tube reinserted.

The tube will remain in place while Bush pursues his appeal.

Schiavo's husband, Michael, has fought a long court battle to remove the feeding tube and carry out what he said were his wife's wishes not to be kept alive artificially. The dispute has pitted him against his in-laws, who say her condition could improve.

Low Marks for Women's Health Care

WASHINGTON | More than one-quarter of American women have high blood pressure and nearly one-fifth lack health insurance, according to a study released Thursday that says federal and state governments fail to meet women's health needs.

The country meets just two of 27 health measures established by the federal government, the report by the National Women's Law Center found: the percentage of women who receive mammograms and see a dentist annually. (AP)

TREATING WOMEN

A new report rates the health care that states and the federal government give to women. Among the findings:

- Black and Hispanic women fared far worse than white women.
- Coronary heart disease kills 210.6 women per 100,000 in D.C. and 84.5 in Hawaii.
- Almost 29 percent of women in Texas are uninsured.

U.S. soldiers recapture governor's office in Najaf

NAJAF, IRAQ | U.S. soldiers seized the governor's office Thursday in the holy city of Najaf, wresting control from Shiite militiamen loyal to a radical cleric in battles that left an estimated 40 insurgents dead.

Militiamen for anti-American cleric Muqtada al-Sadr dug in in Najaf. An increased number of fighters were seen in the city center as the militia attempted to regroup following the loss of the governor's office.

"We will fight until the last drop of our blood," said one fighter.

The fighting came as U.S. administrator L. Paul Bremer announced the appointment of Adnan al-Zurufi as governor of Najaf province, part of the campaign to regain control of the area. Al-Sadr's militia seized government and police buildings throughout the province on April 4.

The United States is planning to hand some sovereignty to a transitional Iraqi government June 30 and is looking to end al-Sadr's uprising, which has left parts of southern Iraq outside of coalition control.

Moderate Shiite leaders have called on al-Sadr's militiamen to abandon Najaf, making it easier for U.S. forces to act against him.

"I think we are going to gain momentum from now on," said Lt. Michael Watson, an Army platoon leader in Najaf. (AP)

Red Cross, Iraqi Group Say They Cited Prison Abuse

BAGHDAD | Iraq's oldest human rights group and the Red Cross said Thursday that they complained repeatedly last year about maltreatment of Iraqi prisoners, long before the U.S. Army began investigating abuse allegations in January.

The Human Rights Organization in Iraq said it got little response from U.S. administrators, although the Red Cross said officials made some changes after it pointed to specific practices at Abu Ghraib prison.

Adel al-Allami said his group tried for months last year to get an audience with U.S. officials. The group got a meeting three weeks ago. "The treatment of these issues has not been positive at all," he said.

Red Cross teams have been visiting Abu Ghraib every five or six weeks since last year, spokeswoman Nada Doumani said.

"We were aware of what was going on, and based on our findings we have repeatedly requested the U.S. authorities to take corrective action," she said, adding that Red Cross regulations prevented her from being specific. (AP)

6 in Libya Get Death In HIV Case

BENGHAZI, LIBYA | Libya sentenced five Bulgarian nurses and a Palestinian doctor on Thursday to death by firing squad, saying they intentionally infected more than 400 children with the AIDS virus in an experiment to find a cure.

Bulgaria's justice minister called the verdicts "absurd." Some human rights groups say Libya concocted the experiment story to cover up unsafe hospital practices and charged that Libya extracted confessions from the health workers by torture.

Death sentences generate an automatic appeal in Libya, and European leaders suggested they were exerting pressure on the government of Moammar Gadhafi to reverse the verdicts.

Dr. Luc Montagnier, the French co-discoverer of the AIDS virus, said poor hygiene at the Benghazi hospital likely led to the contamination. He estimated it happened in 1997 — more than a year before the Bulgarians were hired.

But a commission of court-appointed Libyan doctors rejected the Western expert's testimony and said the Bulgarians willfully infected the children. KHALED AL-DEEB (AP)

Bush Retools Mideast Line

No mention of Israel's right to keep settlements

WASHINGTON | President Bush responded Thursday to complaints in the Arab world and Europe that he sides with Israel, urging the Israelis to withdraw from territory they captured in the 1967 Mideast war and turn it over to the Palestinians for a state.

After meeting at the White House with King Abdullah of Jordan, Bush also promised not to "prejudice the outcome" of negotiations with the Palestinians.

At a joint news conference with the king, Bush did not repeat the assurances he gave Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon last month that he supports Israel's retention of some settlements on the West Bank as part of an overall agreement with the Palestinians.

Bush said all such issues must be negotiated against the backdrop of U.N. Security Council resolutions of 1967 and 1973 that called on Israel to withdraw from captured land. He said he was committed to the establishment of a Palestinian state and he echoed Arab demands that it be viable and contiguous.

Only a few weeks earlier, the president publicly supported Israel's retention of some population clusters on the West Bank and backed Israel in opposing the settlement of Palestinian refugees in Israel. He said "new realities" had emerged since the end of the Six-Day war — a clear reference to the 225,000 Israeli Jews in the West Bank.

Bush reaffirmed his endorsement of Sharon's plan to withdraw all Israeli troops and 7,500 Jewish settlers from Gaza and to pull out of parts of the West Bank, saying it was a "bold plan" that could lead to Palestinian statehood. (AP)

Ukrainian Police Seize 'Dirty Bomb' Material, Arrest 3

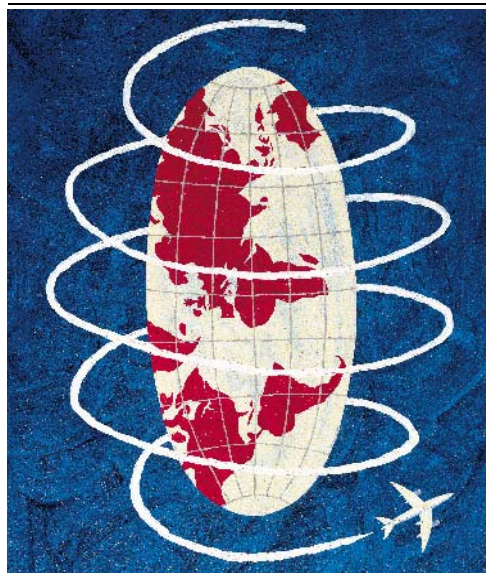

KIEV, UKRAINE | Ukrainian security forces seized nearly 375 pounds of cesium-137, a highly radioactive material seen as a likely ingredient for a "dirty bomb," and arrested three people, authorities said Thursday.

The three men were from the southern city of Simferopol on the Crimean peninsula, police spokesman Yuriy Kondratyev said. An unspecified number of people were detained throughout Ukraine.

Police and state security agents acted on a tip-off that two buyers from the Ukrainian capital, Kiev, were ready to purchase cesium at an estimated price of $60,000 per container, Kondratyev said. (AP)

D.C. Mayor Makes Baseball Pitch

MLB chief: League is 'serious' about Washington

WASHINGTON | Baseball officials wanted to know where the money is coming from. City officials candidly wanted to know if baseball is serious about locating in Washington.

When it was over, both sides gave positive reviews to Thursday's meeting, in which Mayor Anthony A. Williams explained his new plan for a 100 percent taxpayer-funded stadium if the Montreal Expos are moved to the nation's capital.

"If we weren't serious about Washington, D.C., we would not be here," Major League Baseball executive vice president John McHale Jr., said in a rare public statement.

Members of the relocation committee met with Williams and city officials, including three members of the D.C. Council, which would have to approve stadium financing.

Council member Jack Evans wanted frank answers from baseball on two fronts. Is Washington again being used as a pawn to attract other cities? And will baseball yield to Baltimore owner Peter Angelos's contention that Washington should not have a team because it is part of the Orioles' market?

Evans said he received assurances on both fronts, but he added: "I still don't believe the Angelos story."

Baseball has been trying to relocate the Expos since the struggling franchise was purchased by the 29 other teams before the 2002 season. JOSEPH WHITE (AP)

Md. Voters May Decide Slots Fate

ANNAPOLIS, MD. | A plan to let voters decide in November whether to legalize slot machines in Maryland is being considered by legislative leaders, raising the possibility of a special session this summer to debate the contentious issue.

House Speaker Michael Busch and Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller discussed the proposal Monday, and Miller plans to bring up the idea with Gov. Robert Ehrlich.

But Busch said that the talks are only "in an embryonic stage." (AP)

Old Bombs Discovered Near Tunnel

BALTIMORE | Federal and state officials have launched a criminal investigation to determine how 12 post-World War II and Vietnam-era bombs ended up in an old ship-scraping site near the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

The discovery of the old bombs Wednesday evening forced the closure of the tunnel for nearly seven hours before authorities examined and removed 11 of the bombs.

Those bombs arrived at Aberdeen Proving Ground for disposal by 6:45 a.m. Thursday.

World War II and Vietnam-era bombs were sent to Aberdeen, Md., on Thursday.

The 12th bomb was taken to Fort McNair in Washington, D.C., after members of the Navy's 767th Explosive Ordnance Disposal unit used X-ray equipment and a neutron spectroscopy machine to determine that all the bombs did not contain high explosive materials.

Investigators hope to discover who was last responsible for the military ordnance, how they were disposed of and how they should have been disposed of, Maryland Transportation Authority spokesman Bryon N. Johnston said. WILEY HALL (AP)

Fed Chief Sounds Alarm on Deficit

Greenspan says day of reckoning is coming, urges political action

WASHINGTON | Huge federal budget deficits threaten the nation's long-term economic stability, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan said Thursday as he raised new concerns about financing Social Security and Medicare.

A day of reckoning will come, Greenspan warned, because there is no "free lunch."

Greenspan used a speech to a banking conference in Chicago to make the case again that this year's presidential campaign should address reforms of those massive entitlement programs.

Both President Bush and John Kerry have said they will deal with the budget shortfalls. But unlike Greenspan, the candidates have avoided suggesting that benefits cuts are needed.

Greenspan told the conference that he was more concerned about the economic impact of budget deficits than the soaring trade deficit or record levels of household debt.

Normal economic forces will handle the trade deficit and household debt problems, he said, but "the yawning fiscal deficit" will require political action to bring it under control. The Bush administration estimates the federal deficit will reach a record $521 billion this year.

Greenspan did not offer specific solutions to the budget problem. But he previously has suggested raising the retirement age or scaling back the annual cost of living adjustments in Social Security. (AP)

Wife of Enron CFO Gets 1 Year in Prison

HOUSTON | The wife of former Enron finance chief Andrew Fastow pleaded guilty Thursday to helping her husband hide some of his ill-gotten gains and was sentenced to the maximum of one year in prison.

The plea came after months of legal wrangling in which the Fastows sought to minimize Lea Fastow's time away from their two children. The judge turned aside pleas to give Lea Fastow only a few months in prison on the misdemeanor charge of filing a false tax form.

Lea Fastow, 42, was a former assistant treasurer at Enron, but the case involved her role in her and her husband's tax filings. (AP)

HERE WE GO AGAIN: The Philadelphia Flyers reached their 14th conference final in the NHL's expansion era with their victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs on Tuesday.

The Ice Ceiling

Flyers look to end 29-year Stanley Cup drought

NHL PLAYOFFS | When the Philadelphia Flyers last won the Stanley Cup in 1975, there were 18 NHL teams in the league and none in Tampa, San Jose or Calgary.

Now, those three newcomers are looking to make Philadelphia's drought another year longer.

The Flyers knocked out the Toronto Maple Leafs on Tuesday night, by winning Game 6 in overtime, and will face the Tampa Bay Lightning in the Eastern Conference finals starting Saturday.

Jeremy Roenick's game-winning goal popped the water bottle off the top of the net less than an hour before the San Jose Sharks reached their first conference finals appearance by eliminating Colorado.

That set up a matchup with the Calgary Flames, who haven't been this far since they won it all in 1989.

Toronto, an Original Six club that hasn't lifted the Cup since 1967, and Colorado, which has two titles in nine seasons since leaving Quebec, are out. The Lightning are making their conference finals debut and have the best record of the remaining teams.

The Flyers have reached the conference finals 14 times in the expansion era, tying Montreal for the most appearances.

Calgary has some history to fall back on. The Flames lost in the semi-finals in 1981, their first season after relocating from Atlanta, and reached the finals in 1988 — one year before their only championship.

Since that title, they hadn't won a playoff series until beating third-seeded Vancouver in this year's first round. Following that with a stunning six-game victory over Presidents' Trophy-winning Detroit.

Their opponent, the Sharks, seemed poised to reach this level a year ago. But a run of five straight seasons with an improved record ended with a major thud when San Jose finished 14th in the 15-team Western Conference.

That all changed this year when they racked up 104 points, the third most in the NHL.

"We're both young teams, we both have great leadership, both have great goaltending, we're both very disciplined," Flames coach Darryl Sutter said. "They didn't win their division by accident, that's for sure." IRA PODELL (AP)

TV Lineup

→ ROUND 2: The Nets and Pistons resume their playoff series Friday (8 p.m. on ESPN) and Sunday (8 p.m. on TNT). Saturday's double header includes Game 2 of the Pacers-Heat series (7 p.m. on ESPN) and Game 2 of the Kings-Timberwolves series (9:30 p.m. on ESPN). Sunday also features Game 3 of the Lakers-Spurs series (3:30 p.m. on ABC).

→ FINALLY: The NHL conference finals start Saturday (3 p.m. on ABC) with the Philadelphia Flyers-Tampa Bay Lightning series. On Sunday (4 p.m. on ESPN), the San Jose Sharks and Calgary Flames start their series.

→ CHARMED: The Cleveland Indians are in Charm City this weekend for a three-game series against the Orioles that begins on Friday (7:30 p.m. on Comcast). The series picks up Saturday (4:30 p.m. on UPN20) and Sunday (1:30 p.m. on UPN20).

At age 39, Rafael Palmeiro has 3 homers, 21 RBIs and a .311 batting average.

→ WIE SIGHTING: Teen sensation Michelle Wie leads the field in the Michelob Extra Open in Williamsburg, Va., which concludes on Sunday (1 p.m. on ESPN).

→ TIGER AND VIJAY, OH MY: Tiger Woods and Vijay Singh are both in the field of the Wachovia Championship, set to end on Sunday (3 p.m. on CBS).

GIMMICKS | Are They Out of Pizza? There's a new way to get tickets to Detroit Tigers games — spend 30 minutes awaiting care in a hospital emergency room. The Detroit Medical Center promises patients at its emergency rooms that they will be seen by a doctor in 29 minutes or less. Anyone not seen by then gets a choice of tickets to the Tigers, New

Detroit Science Center or Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History. "It's carved in stone, and it is a symbol of the DMC," chief executive Mike Duggan said Monday. Duggan said the company needs to compete with other area health systems for patients. His 29-minute initiative copies similar programs at other hospitals in the area. (AP)

Rasheed, Ben Wallace anchor Pistons' defense in series against Nets

NBA PLAYOFFS | Chauncey Billups crouched, spread his arms and pressed up against Jason Kidd.

The Detroit Pistons guard didn't have to worry about Kidd's ability to get to the basket because he figured if Ben Wallace didn't block or alter his shot, Rasheed Wallace would.

"That's our defense in a nutshell," Billups said. "We don't just have one Wallace, we've got two."

Detroit held New Jersey to the second-lowest point total in NBA playoff history Monday night in a 78-56 victory in Game 1 of their Eastern Conference semifinal series. Game 2 of the series is Friday and then the action shifts to New Jersey for Game 3 Sunday.

During the regular season, the Pistons allowed 84.3 points per game, the third-lowest scoring average since the league began using a shot clock during the 1954-55 season. They set league records by holding 11 opponents — including five straight — under 70 points, and 36 in a row to less than 100.

While it's easy to explain what the Pistons do on defense — pressure the ball on the perimeter, daring players to drive — it's tough for teams to do anything about it.

Just ask the Nets.

"They are a very good defensive team because when you beat one big guy, there is another one waiting for you," said Kidd, who was 4-of-13 for nine points and had six assists. New Jersey shot a franchise-playoff low 27.1 percent, and tied the postseason record for fewest field goals with 19.

"We had good looks, we just didn't knock them down," said Richard Jefferson, who missed 11 of his 12 shots Monday.

A lot of teams have struggled to shoot against the Pistons, especially since Feb. 19, when they added Rasheed Wallace in a three-team trade to play alongside Ben Wallace, a two-time Defensive Player of the Year. LARRY LAGE (AP)

Golden Anniversary of Bannister's Record Run

75-year-old returns to track where he broke 4-minute-mile barrier

RUNNING | When Roger Bannister strained across the tape on May 6, 1954, he did more than break the four-minute barrier for the mile.

He achieved a landmark that transcends sports.

A lanky 75-year-old grandfather with rosy cheeks and a wisp of gray-white hair, he tried to downplay the 50th anniversary of the record at a low-key meet Thursday at Oxford's Iffley Road track in England.

"None of my athletics was the greatest achievement. My medical work has been my achievement and my family with 14 grandchildren. Those are real achievements," said Bannister, a retired neurologist.

About 1,500 fans came to glimpse

Roger Bannister shows off the shoes he wore in his famous race 50 years ago.

Bannister, about the same turnout 50 years ago at the track where he finished in 3 minutes 59.4 seconds.

Lynn Davies, the president of UK Athletics and a 1964 Olympic gold medalist in the long jump would have none of his modesty.

"What he did was equal with Mount Everest, or the first man on the moon," Davies said. "It's on a par in that everyone in the world knew about it, and everyone still knows about it." STEPHEN WADE (AP)

'Spider-Man' Ads Off Bases

Spider-Man ads on bases didn't fly with baseball fans. A day after announcing a novel promotion to have advertisements on bases next month, Major League Baseball reversed course Thursday and eliminated that part of its marketing deal for "Spider-Man 2." "The bases were an extremely small part of this program," said Bob DuPuy, baseball's chief operating officer. "However, we understand that a segment of our fans was uncomfortable with this particular component and we do not want to detract from the fan's experience in any way." (AP)

Inflation Hits the Dollar Store

"I'm having an out-of-money experience," griped one teenager as she hopefully surveyed the wares at Arundel Mills Mall's new FIVE BELOW, where everything costs $1 to $5. A tween-targeted chain that's populating the suburbs faster than you can say "Hot Topic," Five Below is a little bit of Claire's, a little bit of CVS and a whole lotta Random Overstocks 'R' Us. Purses and flip-flops line the walls, with racks of off-brand makeup, sports equipment, school supplies in between. (And don't forget the requisite discount-store stock of VHS tapes.) One corner houses an impressive selection of hoary dime-store gags: garlic gum, fake vomit, sneezing powder. Another holds demure scented candles and the party light bulbs. Price tags from past retail lives still reside on some items, offering buyers the warm smugness of getting an $8.99 item for a solid $3. Inventory turns over fast, so stock up on CareBears packing tape while you can. Manassas and Fairfax stores open on June 4. # The Monster Mash

'Van Helsing' pays campy homage to horror flicks of the past

FILM | "Van Helsing" is the guy Count Dracula, the Wolf Man and Frankenstein's monster whisper about around the campfire.

In Universal's new action-adventure thriller, Hugh Jackman is the supernatural vigilante who must stop Dracula from a vampire brood, while battling the Wolf Man and Frankenstein in the meantime.

Writer-director Stephen Sommers, who also rejuvenated "The Mummy," adds a similar dose of campiness and special-effects overkill to this tale.

The movie is done in the Frankenstein's-monster style of moviemaking: homage after homage after homage patched together.

There's a reference to Jackman's Wolverine from "X-Men," a death scene in which the dearly departed appears in the clouds like "The Lion King," a helper monk (David Wenham) who's like Q from the James Bond movies, some rope-swinging scenes that recall "Spider-Man," and more.

Dracula (Richard Roxburgh) and his vampire brides have thousands of pods containing little bitty vampires that they want to hatch. But the baby monsters tend to pop apart goopily after a few hours of life.

If Dracula can channel lightning through Frankenstein's monster (Shuler Hensley), it will prevent the wicked critters from premature bursting. To fulfill his evil plan, Dracula recruits werewolves to do his bidding.

One of those werewolves is Velkan (Will Kemp), the brother of Anna Valerious (Kate Beckinsale); they're the last survivors of the family that's sworn to stop Dracula.

Here's where Van Helsing steps in. See, the clan is cursed, and no Valerious can get into heaven unless one of them kills Dracula. With family running low, the Vatican sends their top black-ops agent.

What remains unexplored in this film is possibly its most interesting subplot: Who is Van Helsing? What sin did he commit that requires so much work toward redemption? Where does he get his super strength?

But aren't those also the questions left about Wolverine?

Naked in New York

FILM | To prove they're all grown-up, Mary-Kate and Ashley, the multimedia empire formerly known as the Olsen twins, have put out "New York Minute," playing suburban sisters on a big-city adventure.

It's rated PG to appeal to the twins' tweener fan base. But who are we kidding? This movie is really for a male audience.

One or both of the sisters appears naked or runs around Manhattan in nothing but a towel or a flimsy white shirt that's been splashed with water.

Where to begin? When Ashley's character, type-a Jane, is having a bad dream in which she appears nude in front of an audience? Or when Jane realizes the pet boa constrictor of Mary-Kate's character, aspiring rock star Roxy, has slithered from its tank to join her in the shower. (How's THAT for sexual symbolism?)

And the weirdest of all: Jane, who has climbed onto a hotel ledge wearing only a towel to chase after one of those hairless Chinese crested dogs — don't ask — ends up tumbling towel-free into a trash bin, where she realizes with a giggle that she's naked (again).

Roxy, meanwhile, is wearing a micro-bathrobe as she wallows next to Jane amid the refuse.

Part of what makes "New York Minute" troubling is the fact that Mary-Kate and Ashley look and sound so young. They're tiny things with chirpy chipmunk voices, which makes viewing them as sex symbols seem even more predatory.

Voyeuristically directed by Dennie Gordon, "New York Minute" has all the subtlety of a sitcom and none of the sense to effectively use many big-name bit actors who know comedy. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

Model Campbell's Court Win

LITIGATION | Model Naomi Campbell won a legal battle Thursday against a tabloid newspaper that printed photographs of her leaving a drug-counseling meeting. In a decision that expanded Britain's privacy protection, the highest court ruled 3-2 that The Daily Mirror breached Campbell's privacy.

"What's important for me is that people in recovery should be free to receive treatment without fear of press intrusion, and that's what today's judgment guarantees," Campbell said in a statement. She was not present for the judges' ruling. BETH GARDINER (AP)

Reviews by The Washington Post's Ann Hornaday, Michael O'Sullivan and Desson Thomson.

BOBBY JONES: STROKES OF GENIUS (PG, 133 minutes) Based on the life of Bobby Jones, the only golfer to win four major tournaments in a single year, "Strokes" is one of those sports movies that treats athletic ability as something next to godliness. Whenever Jim Caviezel, as Jones, hits the ball, accompanied by swells of syrupy music and slo-mo, it's as if angels had descended from heaven to guide it home in the cup. (MO)

CLIFFORD'S REALLY BIG MOVIE (G, 75 minutes) This movie's sweet, gentle nature may lack the subtle irony of "Toy Story" or "Shrek," but parents won't be bored, thanks especially to the great voice-over work of the late John Ritter and such colleagues as Jenna Elfman, Kel Mitchell and John Goodman. (AH)

ELLA ENCHANTED (PG, 95 minutes) There's something charmingly old-fashioned about this sly retelling of the Cinderella story, despite the fact that the girl (Anne Hathaway) doesn't really want the handsome prince (Hugh Dancy), at least not at first. Hathaway is so earnest and appealing, and the film is so unironic in its embrace of tolerance and self-reliance, that "Ella" may enchant even cynical adults. (MO)

ENVY (PG-13, 99 minutes) This is one of those cinematic curiosities that almost fade quickly, but that will usually find a devoted cult audience. Stars Ben Stiller and Jack Black exactly to type. No new colors here, just the characterizations—shticks—that made them famous. (AH)

Jack Black plays a slob who makes a fortune from dog leavings in "Envy."

GODSEND (PG-13, 100 minutes) This isn't just a bad thriller but also a thing of pain. "Godsend" plays fast and woolly with the idea that dabbling with human genetics is a one-way trip to disaster and moral abuse.

And could we get Robert De Niro on the phone? Bobby, is there anything you say no to anymore? Please read the script all the way through next time. (DT)

I'M NOT SCARED (R, 101 minutes) Set in rural southern Italy, this creepy thriller centers around a young boy's discovery of something terrible. More terrible, though, is what's waiting for him back home, where the implications of his discovery lead to betrayal and a loss of innocence. The film leaves a disturbing echo of evil that won't go away. (MO)

KILL BILL VOL. 2 (R, 136 minutes) If "Vol. 1" was director Quentin Tarantino's "Eastern," "Vol. 2" is his Western, and instead of Lee, Thurman is Clint Eastwood — beaten, bloodied, muddled, scowling and hell-bent on finishing the revenge job she started in "Vol. 1." (AH)

LAWS OF ATTRACTION (PG-13, 87 minutes) If "laws of attraction" were on the books, they should stipulate that two people's affinity for each other was natural, genuine and perhaps a bit heartwarming. A judge evaluating the bond between opposing divorce lawyers Audrey Miller (Julianne Moore) and Daniel Rafferty (Pierce Brosnan) in this movie would likely deem it in violation of such rules. (SARA GEBHARDT)

MAN ON FIRE (R, 146 minutes) A predictable, gruesome piece of business that tries to ennoble one-man vigilante justice with the star power of Denzel Washington and a sledge-hammering of emotional manipulation. It's "Death Wish" warmed over and re-nuked. (DT)

MEAN GIRLS (PG-13, 93 minutes) This film boasts a one-two-three punch in star Lindsay Lohan, screenwriter Tina Fey and director Mark Waters, and, indeed, it delivers a knockout. Smart, funny, well-acted and visually lively, this movie by rights should become a certified teen-comedy hit well before the usual season for that genre begins. (AH)

SHAOLIN SOCCER (PG-13, 87 minutes) The biggest delights in this breezy fusion of underdog sports flick and the martial-arts actioner are its eye-popping special effects and wire-work stunts, not to mention a sense of humor about itself and the clichés of its genre that is utterly disarming. (MO)

13 GOING ON 30 (PG-13, 98 minutes) Jennifer Garner stars appealingly in what amounts to "Big" for the Jane magazine set. If the film isn't exactly original, it's still reasonably cool, thanks to Garner's uninhibited portrayal of a teenage nerd trapped in a "Sex and the City" body, and to the inspired casting of Mark Ruffalo as her friend Matt. (AH)

Because He Can, That's Why

DAVID LETTERMAN will be staying up very late — or getting up really early — to tape a show next week at 4 a.m. "We thought it would be cool," said Rob Burnett, the "Late Show" executive producer. The show that airs on Friday, May 14, will be taped early that morning. Typically, Letterman tapes his Friday show on Thursday evening. Burnett joked that the staffer who thought of the 4 a.m. taping has since been fired. (AP)

LITERARY CRIMES
Bardot No Balzac,
French Court Decrees

French film legend BRIGITTE BARDOT defended herself in court Thursday against charges that she incited racial hatred in her best-selling book. "I never knowingly wanted to hurt anybody. It is not in my character," the former screen siren turned animal rights campaigner

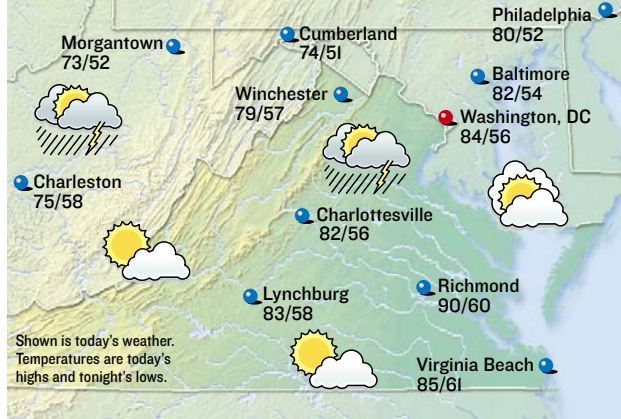

A still from the hot new documentary "Aging Stars: Behind the Sunglasses" said at the Paris hearing. Bardot, 69, acknowledged her literary shortcomings. "Certainly, I'm not Balzac," she said, referring to master 19th century French novelist Honore de Balzac. "The court noticed," replied the chief judge. Bardot has previous convictions for inciting racial violence after she criticized in print the Muslim practice of slaughtering sheep. (AP)

Letters

TO THE EDITOR

IN A LETTER PUBLISHED Thursday, Terry Harbonic expressed outrage regarding the sign asking, "Is this your freedom?" in a photo on Tuesday's Express cover. What the writer may have forgotten was that the murder of the four U.S. contractors in March was carried out by radicals intent on driving a U.S.-led military out of their country. They were in no way claiming to be on a mission of "freedom" and "rebuilding," unlike the U.S. commander-in-chief and his constituency. I think I'll be expressing my outrage at the polls in November.

—PRIANKA NANDY
Arlington, Va.

I WOULD LIKE TO ECHO Terry Harbonic's comments in Thursday's letter to the editor about the Iraqi prisoners. I am getting tired of seeing the same pictures every day and asking, "Where is the apology?"

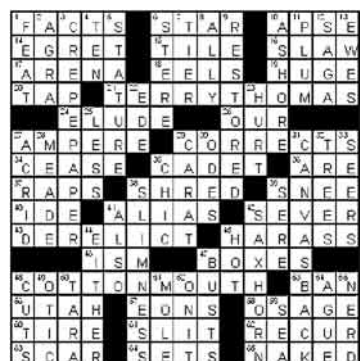

I would like to ask the same thing when Iraqis took the liberty of burning and hanging the American contractors in March. I am tired of other nations viewing the U.S. as immoral beasts. They forget that the U.S. is always the first nation to respond when another nation needs help.

—JOHN BROUGHTON
Fredericksburg, Va.

LIVE ONLINE

Marc Fisher

From washingtonpost.com/liveonline

Washington Post Metro columnist MARC FISHER was online Thursday to discuss the pandas, slot machines and other topics in the news.

This annual news story of "Are the pandas getting it on?" and "Are they pregnant?" makes the media sound like a bunch of mothers-in-law. Why do we do this every year? Either they'll get pregnant or not. Sheesh.

We all like to watch. I was amazed to see a couple of the local TV stations showing video of the panda mounting his mate, but I guess given the current broadcasting standards, I shouldn't have been surprised. Did it ever cross the zookeepers' minds that maybe the beast doesn't care to be watched as he fulfills his procreative function?

Major League Baseball has announced it is going to liven up games by putting ads on the bases. Who could ask for anything more?

Why, oh, why do the lords of baseball insist on making it harder and harder to love the game? Why does the greed of the zillionaires who own sports teams know no bounds? Why are fans ever willing to absorb whatever preposterous overcommercialization is sent our way?

If Pennsylvania passes the slots bill, is the fight over for Maryland?

That's what the pols would love for you to believe. And probably that's what House Speaker Mike Busch will say to defend his latest switcheroo on slots. But if you're really against the idea of government-sponsored slots, then it shouldn't matter if every other state in the nation jumps on the bandwagon.

Today on Live Online

11 A.M.: Post staff writer Jennifer Frey talks about what finally happened with Ross and Rachel, where the cast members go from here and all your favorite "Friends" moments.

NOON: Salah Negm, director of news for Arabic language television station Al-Arabiya, will be online from Dubai to discuss Arab world reaction to prisoner abuse in Iraq.

Horoscope | Stella Wilder

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Even the slightest alteration in your plans may yield remarkable — and highly favorable — results. Be willing to experiment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — It's time to put aside your fears and insecurities and forge ahead with a new project, which has the potential for great success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Prospects are bright, and you have every reason to expect positive developments — even when faced with a sudden slowdown or complication.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — This is a good day to sit back, relax and get your wits about you once again. You'll enjoy a much-needed emotional second-wind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — What appears to be one thing will turn out to be something else again entirely — especially where your emotions are concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You can make a major contribution to the well-being of those around you, and it needn't involve a personal sacrifice of any kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Your social calendar will fill quickly, as a result of a sudden increase in popularity. You have much to offer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Focus on your own potential; do not make the mistake of thinking that you've already done enough. There's a lot on the line.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — This is a good day for fine-tuning your own plans, and preparing for even the most unlikely surprises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Whereas you may have depended on one other individual, you may have need of an entire team of support for a short while.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You have much to share with those around you — but more important than what you have to offer is what you have to learn if you let yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your flexibility and willingness to take advice and criticism make you an excellent candidate for lasting benefits.
